the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1998. The number of people in the public sector who are employed in health care has increased by 1.2 million, from 1.3 million in 1980 to 2.5 million in 1998.

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the quality of health care, and this has led to a number of initiatives to improve the quality of health care. The National Patient Safety Agency (NPSA) was established in 1999 to improve patient safety and to reduce the number of avoidable deaths and injuries. The NPSA has a number of initiatives to improve patient safety, including the National Patient Safety Programme (NPSP) and the National Patient Safety Forum (NPSF). The NPSP is a programme of initiatives to improve patient safety, and the NPSF is a forum for the development of patient safety initiatives.
